there again ... I'll kill that entity ... her, him, it ... I'll it with my own hands!"

It took me an hour to quiet him, but he subsided at la day I got him decent clothes in the village, and set out Arkham. His fury of hysteria was spent, and he was in silent, though he began muttering darkly to himself whe ssed through Augusta — as if the sight of a city arou nt memories. It was clear that he did not wish to go hom sidering the fantastic delusions he seemed to have with delusions undoubtedly springing from some actual hyp to which he had been subjected — I thought I would be